ABOUT ME

Leah is a fashion photographer with an interest in all aspects of the construction of the fashion image; from the selection of the styling, make-up and the photography itself, taking influence from Pop Art and contemporary fashion practice working both in the studio and location. Leah's work engages with critical issues such as human rights, environmentalism and the Anthropocene.

With a meticulous attention to detail in all aspects of fashion production, Leah's images are characterised by a bold use of colour and careful posing that is controlled and considered to be highly critical in a fashion photography context.
